Among the speakers will be Kyle Pruett, M.D., clinical professor of child psychiatry and director of medical studies at the Yale Child Study Center, Yale University School of Medicine. His topic will be, "The Important Role Fathers Play in the Lives of Their Children."

In addition, a panel of educators, municipal and state officials, and other experts will discuss:

- The important role dads play in children's academic success;
- Efforts to support family re-entry;
- Faith-based efforts to support fathers and families;
- The employment needs of low-income fathers;
- Changing the culture in child support.

Please RSVP to coc@cga.ct.gov. For more information, contact the Commission on Children at (860) 240-0290 or visit cga.ct.gov/coc. The event is co-sponsored by the Connecticut Department of Social Services.
